DUTIES OF F. F. A. COMMITTEE

(Note: See other articles and features in this issue concerning National Future Farmers of America Week).

By LeRoy Williamson
F. F. A. Chapter Reporter

The F. F. A. Executive Committee is the foremost committee in our chapter. It is made up of the leaders in the chapter, including the officers. This year's members are Henry Covington, chairman; and Lewis Moore, Myron Richardson, Robert Mann, Larry Torrence, LeRoy Williamson, Hunter Talley, Robert Garrette, Floyd Coleman, Winifred Nash, Joel Carnefix, Buddy Day and Thelbert Stratton.

The executive committee' two main jobs are: to set up the standing committees and to meet once a month to plan club meetings.

The first executive committee meeting is held in late August, a couple of weeks before school begins. At this meeting, the ten standing committees have chairmen assigned to them, along with assistants. The remainder of these committees are made up at another special meeting after school starts.

The executive committee meets each month to assign one of the standing committees to prepare the program for the club meeting that month. We also have called meetings to decide upon important matters that have come up, such as to plan for chapter activities during National F. F. A. Week, and Father-Son Banquet.

Actually, the executive committee is the backbone of our chapter and keeps the activities running smoothly.

Advice: Anyone who is lavish with the compliments will get along in this life. People absorb flattery like kittens lap up cream.

Wealth will take care of itself; what this country needs is somebody to see that the average man and woman gets a break in the battle of life.

Bad Weather Keeps February Grip in Area

The weather reports reads, simply: "Cloudy with rain or snow today, highest in middle or upper 30's. Friday, clearing and cold."

However, this morning, it looked "worse than that," and local citizens began imagining all manner of another tussle with heavy snow and sleet. Snow and sleet began falling during early morning hours, and by sunrise the combination was an inch deep.

Local service stations were building up lines of car-owners waiting to have chains put on. The highway department had crews out shortly after sunrise, ready with heavy equipment, and ready to keep the roads open.

There were hopes, and some encouragement from weather forecasts there might be an afternoon warming, and that rain would replace the precipitation of snow and sleet. In that event, the area would be "out" of another grip of King Winter.

Even at that, a rain this afternoon would likely be followed by a freeze overnight, making travel hazardous. A low in the 20's has been predicted for tonight. Winds Friday are on the schedule, making outdoor ventures less pleasant.

The current seige of bad weather follows on the heels of the heavy snowfall of ten days ago, which left the area with a ten to 12-inch blanket. Some of that remained as the precipitation set in early this morning.

Heart Sunday Canvass Here

Appomattox's Heart Sunday Week-End will start Friday evening, Feb. 26, and continue through Sunday afternoon, Feb. 28. During this week-end, volunteers will conduct a door-to-door collection in the residential areas.

The local canvass will be one of more than 10,000 to be conducted by more than 1,500,000 volunteers from coast to coast, Ivey Holland, Heart Sunday Chairman, pointed out.

Each volunteer will call at the homes of 20 of his immediate neighbors, presenting an official Heart Fund contribution envelope for the donor's convenience. After bills, coins or checks have been inserted, the envelope may be sealed before being returned to the volunteer.

The funds collected in the canvass will be added to those collected in the other areas of the state by the Virginia Heart Association and its chapters, and councils during the month-long drive. The Heart Fund goal here this year is $470.00.

"Heart Sunday Week-End gives us an opportunity to fulfill our individual responsibility for fighting the cardiovascular diseases, the nation's Number One health enemy," Mr. Holland said.

The Heart Fund Week-End campaign will be conducted in the Pamplin area under the supervision of Mr. W. C. Dudley, who has ably conducted the campaign there for a number of years.

If you are not afforded the opportunity to contribute to a volunteer worker, you are urged to mail your contribution to Ivey Holland, County Chairman, Box 366, Appomattox.
